Directions

FaithCamp2010

June 16 – 20, 2010

We're about 2 hours east of Lewiston, Idaho, 4 hours north of Boise; 4 hours west of Missoula; 4 hours south of Coeur d' Alene; 4 hours north east of Walla Walla; 8 hours east of Portland; 13 hours north of Sacramento; 39 hours west of Collegedale, TN; 18 hours east of Bangkok (by air, that is).

Directions for driving from Lewiston:

Stay on Hwy 12 East towards Missoula until Mile Marker 75. Then follow the directions from "the Bridge" below.

From Missoula:

Interstate 90 to Reserve Street. Go South on Reserve and turn right on Hwy 93 south, and Hwy 12 west. At Lolo turn right on Hwy 12. Follow to Mile Marker 75 in Idaho, turn left and cross Clearwater river. Follow the directions from "the Bridge" below.

From Boise:

Go west on 84 until you reach 95. Go north on 95 for 3 hours until you get to Grangeville. Take a right on Hwy 13 and go through town and out into the countryside, down a steep windy grade into the valley. Follow the river for a while. Go through Stites. Go through Kooskia. Just after the white church on the far side of Kooskia, turn right. It's a 25mph zone. A couple minutes later you'll see a big steel bridge on the left. Follow the directions below from "the Bridge" to finish your trip.

From "the Bridge":

Just after Mile Marker 75 (76 if you're coming west from Missoula), you'll see an old steel bridge with a sign to the National Fish Hatchery. Cross that bridge (to your right if you're driving east, left if your driving west) and take an immediate left turn. Follow that road with the river on your left. You'll cross a little bridge and pass the Fish Hatchery on your right. Go for another mile, then bear left at the "Y" (you'll see a set of dumpsters on the right) onto Leitch Creek Road. Follow that up a windy canyon for about 5 miles until you come into a small open valley. Take "Doughty Road" to the right (if you come to another "Y" with more dumpsters, you've gone to far) and go past a house on the right and on up over a little, steep hill. As you crest the hill, slow down and take the first right down a gravel driveway. Follow the driveway about a third of a mile and it will take you to FaithCamp. Someone will be there to help you choose a site for camping.

By Air:

It's closest to fly into Lewiston (about 2 hours from FaithCamp) and rent a car there. Spokane is cheaper but it's a 4-hour drive to FaithCamp.

What is FaithCamp2010?

June 16 – 20, 2010

What does Faith have to do with Missions? A lot. Here in America we can get by pretty well without a lot of faith. Sure, we can have a belief system that includes the concept of faith. We may even exercise some faith to get a good job, or get through a tough scrape sometimes. But we usually know where our next meal is coming from, where we're going to sleep tonight, how we'll be taken care of this next year. Missions - if you really stop and look at what it will require of us to take the Gospel to the whole world - asks us to step outside our "comfort zone" and begin a journey of greater and greater dependence on Jesus. Missions has a way of exposing your character weaknesses, of challenging your assumptions, of stretching your faith.

We have found that missions is not a job but a blessing in disguise. Whether we go overseas or stay home (a decision to be made by the Lord), assuming the responsibility and weight of compassion for the entire world, allowing our hearts to break for people who have no idea that there is a loving Savior who already knows them as His own children, will transform us into people who understand the heart of Christ at a much deeper level, and who emulate His self-sacrificing character more closely.

As we see the need, it becomes easier for us to let go of the things that tend to hold our affections to the earth. As the time of Jesus' second coming approaches, we need to speed up the process of converting our earthly assets into heavenly gold. And the gold of heaven is souls. God owns everything, but He doesn't yet have all the people, not their hearts. And He would gladly give the whole world for just one person. Would we give our home? Our car? Our time? Our insurance? That takes a lot of faith. And that is the reason for FaithCamp2010. Come be challenged.

Please call us if you would like Bulletin Inserts to share with your church!
